2.2 Catering to Student Diversity

2.2.1 - The institution assesses the learning levels of the students and organizes special Programs for advanced learners and slow learners

- ✓ At the time of admission, students are advised, guided, and oriented about the course, internal and external evaluation methods, curricular and co-curricular activities, institution rules and regulations, and college amenities.
- ✓ The college prospectus, which is distributed to students prior to the start of academic sessions, contains a list of courses, curricular and co-curricular activities, rules and regulations, and available facilities, among other things.
- ✓ Teachers judge the students' learning levels and grasping level of the course at the start of each course, and tailored programs for advanced and slow learners are developed appropriately.
- ✓ For advanced and sluggish students, remedial and additional exercises are held.
- ✓ Paper sessions are repeated for slow learners and late applicants after the syllabus has been over.
- ✓ Faculties from all departments advise students on the future scope of various courses available as well as provide guidance on the student's aptitude and competency.
- ✓ Students also have the option of modifying their options if they are unable to deal with the courses they have chosen. Teachers are present in college to answer questions and provide guidance to students, even on a one-on-one basis. Advanced students are urged to take on the role of class mentor.
- ✓ On a regular basis, extension lectures and exposure tours to various colleges, industrial units, field visits, project work, research work (data survey), sites visit, diversity rich places, and institutions are held.
